Digger seems to have been a stray dog that attached himself to soldiers training at Broadmeadows and followed them down to the troopships. Martin adopted him as a mascot and they sailed from Melbourne on 20 October 1914. Martin served initially with 1 Division Signal Company on Gallipoli, but transferred to 2 Division Signal Company in July 1915.

Digger wasn't just a dog; he was a detective of sorts – a fact made apparent by the gumshoe-esque hat that sat atop his drooping (yet, decidedly unfloppy) ears. Regardless of what caper you were trying to solve, Digger followed closely alongside, ever faithful to his master and determined to take a bite out of crime.
